

Connecting professionals.

Sharing knowledge.

Advancing best practices.

Lambda Alpha International (LAI) is the global network for distinguished professionals in all fields related to the use and development of land.

LAI is committed to promoting best practices and making a difference in our communities.

The 2000-plus members of LAI make valuable connections locally and with peers worldwide.

LAI has a growing network of chapters in the United States, Canada, Europe, and Asia. Our local chapters offer a variety of programs with top speakers, relevant forums, and events.

CONNECTING PROFESSIONALS

LAI is an honorary and selective organization. We connect members with top professionals and build meaningful relationships related to the use and reuse of land - in design, business, professional, technical, academic, urban planning, and government communities.

Our network of LAI chapters and online member database provide access to senior level professionals locally, nationally and worldwide for assistance with contacts, information or professional services on land use issues.

This professional diversity creates a unique blend of perspectives enjoyed in regular chapter meetings and presentations. Members engage in discussion and debate about land use, economic, and business issues that matter on the local level.

Twice-yearly Land Economics Weekends provide opportunities for members to broaden their perspectives and meet face-to-face with other top professionals from around the world, while getting behind-the-scenes access to projects in some of the world's most interesting cities.

LAI provides a forum for discussion through our private LAI LinkedIn group, and members keep up with the latest news through our online publication KeyNotes.

SHARING KNOWLEDGE

Land economics is constantly changing. LAI is committed to providing a forum for the exchange of ideas in the fast-paced world of land use and development.

LAI is a global network of local chapters. Local chapters set local agendas and discuss topics of interest to their market and members. Project presentations and case studies aren't just interesting, they're relevant.

Locally and globally, the spirit of LAI is one of mutual respect. Diversity of opinion is welcome. We look at the use of land from many different angles -- from ownership, management and development to regulation, preservation, conservation, and redevelopment.

ADVANCING BEST PRACTICES

LAI is committed to excellence and high professional standards. The members of LAI are among the best in their respective fields. This commitment to excellence extends beyond who we are to what we do.

LAI is committed to making a difference. Chapters reach out to their surrounding communities, promoting understanding of land markets and the forces affecting growth, decline, and revitalization.

LAI recognizes professional excellence through the presentation of international awards to members and the larger land economics professional community. Several chapters also present awards to honor outstanding achievement.

LAI supports research and education on a broad variety of land use topics through the Land Economics Foundation. The mission of the LEF is to administer an investment fund which provides grants for research projects. LEF grants are approved for projects that encourage and support the study and application of land economics and support the highest ideals of scholarship and integrity.

HISTORY

Lambda Alpha International was founded in 1930 at Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois under the leadership of the “father of land economics,” Richard T. Ely. Membership in LAI is an honor. Since its founding, LAI has continued its commitment to excellence in providing a forum for cross-disciplinary collaboration.
